

2018-04-29 Order Tool 1.2.0 - Tracking Order History

Release date

April 29 at 3:02 pm EDT

Key features

Order history

The Unizin Order Tool will now track changes to an order over time.

The feature released in 1.2.0 is the backend foundation for tracking order changes. A subsequent release of the Order Tool will expose changes in the user interface. It will enable users, such as instructors and course coordinators, to see who may have modified an order and when. Sometimes, changes to an order can be made automatically, as when an institution decides to remove a section from its course catalog.

The changes tracked include the following:

- A section is added to or removed from an order
- A content item is added to or removed from an order
- A content request is added to or removed from an order
